Communicable Disease Management

Communication Plan

for the 2023-24 School Year

Our Goal

Safely & reliably hold school in- person, all year

We are now equipped to operate through communicable disease events.

Our highest priority is to keep kids learning in person every day.

- Nearly all children learn better when taught in-person.
- Children and families rely on schools to provide a caring and safe environment.
- For parents and families, consistency matters, and for many, school is a way to ensure they can go to work and support their family.

Our Plan

To keep students learning!

We are sustaining our efforts to:

- Communicate with families regarding communicable disease transmission in our community.
- Offer tools and resources to protect against illness.
- Work with staff and students to remind, reteach and retrain health and safety protocols.

Communication regarding communicable disease transmission

Our school monitors absenteeism. When we see a high rate of absenteeism in our school connected to communicable diseases, we will notify parents via email to:

- Make aware the level of communicable disease circulating in our community.
- Ask families to watch for symptoms of illness and stay home when ill.
- Suggest actions that can prevent the continued transmission of disease.

The Opportunity

Strengthen health & safety in our school

During times of high communicable disease transmission, our school will implement protocols to create and maintain safe environments that keep our students learning in-person. This will include:

- Reteaching and encouraging handwashing.
- Disinfecting and sanitizing surfaces.
- Suggesting face coverings and diagnostic testing while a respiratory outbreak is active.
